PROPOSE TAX BY TOWNSHIPS

Friends Plan to Get I. & C. Cincinnati Extension—Advocate Special Election to Settle Question.

COST FOR EACH TO BE SMALL

Is Recalled That Railroad Was Obtained by Voting Subsidy Many Times as Large.

A friend of H. G. Hackman, president of the Rushville Retail Merchants Association, had an idea. Mr. Hackman imparted that idea to another friend. That gave the latter friend an idea, and behold! It is proposed that petitions be circulated in the three townships, through which the proposed route of the I. & C. extension to Cincinnati would pass, to call an election to vote a subsidy for the amount which the I. & C. demands to pay for right-of-way which was not donated.

New impetus has been given to the movement to get the I. & C. extension through the southern part of Rush county at any cost. It is feared that the desired amount could not be raised by public subscription because the burden would be borne unequally, in view of the fact that many citizens owning real estate would not give their share.

It would be legal for the townships to vote any sum to a public improvement which would help the community. It has been done before in Rush county with great success. Advocates of this plan believe that it can be done this time, with overwhelming majorities, because the value of the traction line to Rushville and the southern half of Rush county is fully appreciated by everyone, with the exception of a few who oppose all public improvements.

The expense could be divided equally between the three townships. It would be such a small amount in taxes that the average taxpayer would never realize that he was paying it. It is argued that the people who pay the most taxes in the three townships would not feel the assessment.

A special election would have to be called for each township. The special election would be called by the commissioners, providing a certain per cent. of the taxpayers of the township petitioned the commissioners for the election.

The proposed route passes through Rushville, Noble and Richland townships. Residents of the two latter townships are eager for the traction line because of the accommodation it would afford them and because of the part it would have in increasing the value of their property. There is every reason to believe that the special election would carry in every one of the three townships.

Such a thing has been done in Rush county before. Five townships, through which passes the railroad that is now known as the Big Four, voted a subsidy to that railroad, in order to cause it to be built, many years ago. According to the remembrance of the older citizens of Rushville, it was a very large sum as compared with the amount which the I. & C. asks. One man stated today he believed the tax to bring the Big Four here was two cents on the hundred dollars worth of appraised property in Rushville township. It is figured that the tax for the present purpose would be one-tenth as great. It would be so small that the largest taxpayer would not suffer any inconvenience by the payment of it, and the small taxpayer would not be able to notice the increase.

MRS. CHARLES WEEVIE DEAD

Passed Away at Home Here After Several Week's Illness.

Mrs. Anna Weevie, 44 years old, wife of Charles Weevie, died last night shortly after midnight, at her home in Fort Wayne Avenue, after an illness of several weeks from heart disease and goiter. She is survived by her husband and eight children, Raymond, Mamie, Edgar, Clayton, William, Florence, Blanche and Martha. $27,000 BUILDING DEDICATED TODAY

New Modern School at Moscow Formally Opened With Ceremonies and Big Dinner.

MANY PATRONS ATTENDED

The new Orange township school building at Moscow was dedicated today with an all-day meeting and a big dinner at noon. Practically all the school patrons in Orange township were in attendance besides many from surrounding towns. Dr. King of the State Board of Health was present and made a brief talk.

The Moscow building is the pride of the little town and is one of the best school buildings in Rush county. It is one of the most modern buildings in the state and was completed at a total cost of $27,000. The building will be used for both the township grade schools and high school. The contract for the building was awarded June 4, 1912. John Geraghty of this city is principal of the school.

IS HONORED BY A HIGH DEGREE

Maj. Gen. J. A. DeHority, Related Here, Has Declaration of Chivalry Conferred on Him.

EXCEPTION MADE IN HIS CASE

Major General Joe A. DeHority of Elwood, son-in-law of Mrs. Mary E. Beale of this city and well known here, has had a signal honor conferred on him by the Odd Fellows lodge. Tuesday night the Elwood Odd Fellows conferred the degree of the Grand Declaration of Chivalry on Mr. DeHority. General Stocker of Miamasburg, O., came all the way to Elwood to perform the ceremony.

The degree is given to those members of the Patriarch Militants only who have attained to a high rank. The honor is conferred only at the Sovereign Grand lodge meetings, with this exception. The degree was to have been given with a class at the regular Grand lodge session at Winipeg, Canada, last summer, but Mr. DeHority was compelled to bring home an officer of the State grand lodge who suddenly became ill and he was not present when the work was conferred.

Dr. F. G. Hackleman is very ill. The attending physicians have been unable thus far to diagnose the case and determine exactly with what ailment he is suffering.

MANY TO ATTEND FARMERS SCHOOL

Short Course For Sixth District at Cambridge City Promises to Attract Big Crowd.

PREPARATION TO ENTERTAIN

Public School Day Will be Feature of Courses—Special Terms For Teachers.

The Purdue university short course for farmers, stockmen, dairymen, horticulturists, poultrymen, homekeepers and teachers, which is to be held at Cambridge City on February 3, 4 and 5, promises to be better and larger than ever before.

The course will be attended by men, women and children from all parts of the sixth district to whom the course is open. Cambridge City is making extensive preparation for the entertainment of the students while in that city, for many of those who will enroll will stay throughout the entire three days.

The sessions of the farmers' short course will be held in the Hurst Opera house and the domestic science school will hold classes in the Baptist church. A feature of the short course will be the public school day on February 4.

All pupils in the township schools attending this course will be credited with attendance in their respective schools the same as if they had attended their own school, and teachers are to give such credits on their records. A pupil may also attend the entire course and receive credit for regular school work. All eighth grade pupils in Wayne county attending the three days' session will be exempt from the final diploma examination in agriculture.

Teachers of the townships of Jackson, Washington, Jefferson and Harrison, Wayne county, will attend on Tuesday, February 4, the public school day, on full pay. Special terms of admission for pupils and teachers are to be made later.

The following are the names of the chairmen of the committees in charge of the short course who may be addressed for more detailed information: Publicity and program, B. F. Wissler; rooms and supplies, Charles Wheeler; public schools, C. O. Williams; resolution, M. E. Mason; sale of tickets, F. M. Marson; domestic science, Mrs. Thomas Henby; reception, Beatrice Swallow; music, J. T. Reese.

NEWCASTLE PLAYS HERE

Coming For Game With Locals Tomorrow Night.

The Newcastle high school basketball team will play the local team here tomorrow night. The teams are said to be evenly matched and a great game is expected. The Rushville team has only won one game this season but in all the games has put up a good fight and made a creditable showing. The team is in good condition and will make Newcastle go the limit to win.

As a curtain raiser to the big game, the girls' teams of the high school will play. The first game will be called at 7:30 o'clock.

BEATS HER WITH AN IRON POKER

Vern Wink, Knightstown Druggist, is Charged With Other Serious Offenses in Divorce Complaint.

AND HE CHOKES HIS SPOUSE

Bess Wink Further Alleges he Has Threatened to Kill Her—Calls Her Vile Names.

A divorce complaint, containing some very bold and startling allegations, accompanies the suit brought by Bess Wink against Vern Wink, says the Newcastle Times. The defendant is a Knightstown druggist.

The various recitals in the complaint, which was drawn by Newby & Newby, are as follows: The first marriage of the couple was on the 2d of April, 1903. After six years of wedded life a separation and divorce followed in 1909, but no further reference is made to this fact. They were re-married April 12, 1910, but this season of domestic bliss and devotion, on the part of the husband, was short-lived, as will appear later on.

The opening paragraph in the complaint starts off with "cruel and inhuman treatment," but the "bill of particulars," if proven, will verify the general charge. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant has often struck and beat her with his hands and fists; has struck her with an iron poker; has choked her, and many times threatened to kill her and has committed numerous assaults upon her in the past three years. In addition to these facts of physical force, it is alleged that the defendant cursed her and called her vile names.

In the month of May, 1912, it is alleged that he left his home, wife and children, and was gone for five months. This is the only absence of long duration mentioned, but other "lapses" of two or three days are charged, and the plaintiff alleges that no explanation of these was ever given, further than that the defendant had been gambling. It is further averred that he often came home intoxicated.

In another paragraph adultery is charged on a date in 1912, in the city of Indianapolis and the writing of love letters to an "unmarried girl in Knightstown" in the month of January, 1913, is also alleged.

There are two children, aged 8 and 6 years, and the plaintiff says the defendant is not a fit person to have charge of these. An absolute divorce is asked, together with custody of the children $2,000 alimony, and $50 per month for the support and education of the children. It is alleged that the defendant owns real estate of the value of $4,000, and that he has an income of $2,500 annually.

BIG CROWD IS ATTRACTED

Posey Township Farmers Institute Held at Arlington Yesterday.

A crowd of several hundred people attended the afternoon and evening session of the Posey township farmers' institute at Arlington yesterday. A musical program of vocal solos and orchestra selections was rendered. Several addresses were made. Prizes were awarded on bread, candies, cake and other exhibits made by Posey township housewives.

ATTENDS FAIR MEETING

W. L. King Present at Southeastern Indiana Association Session.

W. L. King, secretary of the Rush County Fair Association, attended the meeting of the southeastern Indiana Fair association at North Vernon yesterday. The dates for the county fairs in the circuit were fixed and other business of importance was transacted. The date of the Rush county fair, August 26 to 29, which was selected at the meeting of the Eastern Indiana Fair association meeting, fits into the schedule arranged by the southeastern association. Rush county will attract race horses and concessions from both circuits.

DISGRACED; TRIES TO TAKE HIS LIFE

Knightstown Schoolboy Believes World Holds Nothing For Him When Whipped by Playmate.

BOYS DRAG HIM FROM WATER

Being disgraced in the "de eyes of de gang" by a beating from one of the band, Harry Steel, ten years old, son of Mrs. Mack Steel of Knightstown, threatened that he would drown himself—and he attempted to carry out the threat. The rest of the boys who witnessed the fight looted at his talk at first and this only incensed him further. Their taunts caused him to resolve to end it all by jumping in Blue river. When he started toward the river, the boys thought he might be in earnest and followed to watch him. Harry felt that he had to make good, and he leaped into the river. Fortunately the boys were near enough so that they ran to his rescue and dragged him from the water in time to save his life.

SIGN PETITION AGAINST BILL

Seventy-Five Female Employees of Rushville Are Opposed to Eight-Hour Measure.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TONIGHT

Local Employers go to Indianapolis to Present Petitions Before Senate Committee.

Several Rushville business men went to Indianapolis today to attend tonight an open meeting of the senate committee of the legislature which will hear argument for and against the two Keegan bills providing for an eight-hour workday for women and a minimum wage law for women. It is the eight-hour day bill that local men are interested in.

Manufacturers and retail merchants here who employ girls and women have been perfecting an organization in the last few days to form a link in the chain of evidence that will be presented to the committee tonight to show the opposition to the eight-hour day bill. Employers of women and girls from all parts of the State will be present tonight.

Petitions have been circulated among the female employees of factories and stores in Rushville during the last few days, and the merchants and manufacturers going to Indianapolis this afternoon carried with them the signatures of seventy-five girls and women who are opposed to the passage of the eight-hour bill. Very few feminine employees in Rushville who would be affected by the bill failed to sign the petitions.

The petitions were signed because the women and girls feared that if they were compelled by law to work only eight hours a day, when they are now working nine, with extra hours on Saturday in most cases, that their wages would be cut accordingly. Retail merchants and manufacturers who employ women and girls felt that they could not afford to continue them under the present wage scale if they worked only eight hours a day, whereas they are now working nine, and in some cases ten hours a day.

When the bill was first introduced, feminine employees in local stores and factories were heart and soul for the measure, believing they would be paid extra for all hours over eight that they worked each day. When they learned that the law provides that they shall work only eight hours a day, the majority of them turned against the measure. It is argued that the law would not be so disastrous in its effects if it provided that women and girls should not work more than forty-eight hours a week.

As well as working a hardship on female employees, it would also cause retail dealers great inconvenience. It would make two shifts of clerks necessary in most cases. Retail stores remain open many more than eight hours on Saturday, and in busy seasons are crowded a good part of the time.

THAT'S ANOTHER QUESTION.

Muncie Press Senator Beveridge, in an article which appears in a current magazine, seems to argue that the reason the republican party ought to get off the earth, is because under the leadership of Abraham Lincoln is put down the rebellion, and therefore cannot be forgiven by the South. And this from Albert, who came into politics in Indiana, waving the bloody shirt on the stump before he was able to talk painfully.

NEW INDICTMENTS IN ARSON TRUST CASES

Fire Bugs Fleeing New York In Drovers.

New York, Jan. 23.—In the arson ring presentation the district attorney has obtained five new indictments and is rapidly clearing the way for the trials of Henry C. Freeman, Robert J. Rubin and George Grutz, the fire insurance brokers and adjusters who are accused of being the leaders of the band of incendiaries. Assistant District Attorney Weller has presented his evidence so forcibly to the grand jury that already eighteen indictments which concern thirteen men have been handed down. Isidor Steinkreutzer, the most notorious of firebugs, continued his revelations of the frauds of the arson ring before Mr. Weller. He introduced the names of more members of the criminal gang and there will be further arrests and indictments.

Mr. Weller talked also with several lawyers representing insurance companies, and with officers of companies, all of whom were able to supply corroborative evidence which will be used in the trials of the chiefs of the arson ring.

"The immediate result of our investigation," said Mr. Weller, "is that dozens of firebugs and literally hundreds of dishonest flat renters have fled from the city, fearing exposure by Steinkreutzer or other informers. So that we have effectually smashed the arson trust, although no trials have been had."

HE HAS BUT A NARROW MARGIN FOR HIS LIFE

What Physician Says About William Rockefeller.

Washington, Jan. 23.—William Rockefeller's physician, Dr. Walter F. Chappelle of New York, appeared before the Pujo investigation committee and testified that any attempt on the part of the committee to examine Mr. Rockefeller would endanger his life. Notwithstanding this the committee again voted to take Mr. Rockefeller's testimony. It is understood that the committee divided again by a vote of 7 to 1. Mr. Pujo, the chairman, being the only member who opposed the proposed examination. It is the understanding now that the committee will make an effort to examine Mr. Rockefeller in New York possibly next week, but there have been no suggestions that Mr. Rockefeller would carry the matter into the courts before he will submit.

Dr. Chappelle appeared before the committee to explain in greater detail Mr. Rockefeller's condition. He said his patient has four conditions of the larynx which made it very dangerous for him to become excited or to undergo a sustained effort to use his voice. Dr. Chappelle testified that all the muscles and nerves on the right side of the larynx had been removed and that the absence of these rendered Mr. Rockefeller liable to suffocation in the event of excitement. The physician testified that his patient had a hemorrhage of the larynx while at Nassau. "It is now a very narrow margin for his life," said the specialist. "Everything has been done that can be done in operations. He has no further recourse left if he has another severe hemorrhage."

The action of the committee in insisting on examining Mr. Rockefeller is against the advice of Samuel Untermyer, the committee counsel. There is a probability that Mr. Untermyer may refuse to assume the responsibility of questioning Mr. Rockefeller.

Negro Gets Life Sentence.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The jury in criminal court which heard the case of Frank Willie Smith, a negro accused of murder in the first degree, returned a verdict finding Smith guilty of murder in the second degree. WILL SURRENDER ADRIANOPE

Terms Proposed by the Great Powers For the Settlement of the Vexing Balkan Question Have Been Accepted in Their Entirety, Ottoman Empire Being Unable to Face Renewal of Bloody War.

Constantinople, Jan. 23.—Noradunghian Effendi, the Turkish foreign minister, today, unless there is some unforeseeable slip between the cup and the lip, will present to Marquis Pallavicini, the Austrian ambassador and the dean of the diplomatic corps here, the porte's reply to the demands of the powers complying with the advice contained in the joint note of the latter in regard to the surrender of Adrianople and the Aegean islands.

Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, is against a renewal of the war, and the members of the cabinet formally have favored the acceptance of the advice of the powers in regard to yielding to the terms of the allies. The decision of the assembly to accept the advice of the powers to yield to the allies and surrender Adrianople and leave the Aegean isles to the decision of the powers was almost unanimous.

The note handed to the porte on Jan. 17 by the European ambassadors at Constantinople called the Ottoman government's attention "to the grave responsibility it would assume if by resistance to their counsels it should prevent the re-establishment of peace. It would only have itself to blame if the prolongation of the war had as a consequence put in question the fate of the capital and perhaps to extend hostilities to the Asiatic provinces of the empire."

The document continued that "in that case the Turkish government could not count on the success of the efforts of the powers to preserve it from the dangers against which they had already warned it and which they once more warned it to avoid."

The powers then called the attention of the Ottoman government to the fact that after the conclusion of peace it would have need of the moral and material support of the powers to repair the evils of the war and the development of vast Asiatic territories.

The note pointed out that the Turkish government could count on the efficacy of the benevolent support of the powers only so long as it deferred to their counsel, inspired by the general interests of Europe and Turkey. The powers then advised Turkey to consent to the cession of Adrianople and to leave to them the fate of the Aegean islands.

The porte is expected to ratify the action of the grand council of the empire, accepting in their entirety the terms proposed in the joint note presented by the great powers.

WEDDING GIFTS GUARDED

Detectives Keep Watch Over Treasures at Lyndhurst.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, after an hour's auto ride last evening, dined alone at Lyndhurst, where they are to spend part of their honeymoon.

Pinkerton detectives are on guard at Lyndhurst. Two men stand in the art gallery, where the presents are displayed. The jeweled gifts have been placed in the safe in the office, and are also well guarded. Had the art gallery at Lyndhurst not been an immense room there would not have been space for the thousands of gifts that came from all over the world. Chief among these were presents from the relatives of the bride and her friends; from the army, the navy, the railroad organizations aided by her, the Young Men's Christian association; from officers of the Gould railroads and from employees at Miss Gould's country and city homes.

Will Make It Public Tomorrow.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Secretary of State Knox announces that the text of his reply to the British note of protest against the Panama canal toll legislation will be made public in the United States and Great Britain simultaneously tomorrow following its presentation to the British parliament. The Knox note is intended to narrow down the questions at issue between the two governments in regard to the Panama canal act granting free tolls to American ships engaged in coastwise shipping, and it also undertakes to enlighten the British government as to what just is meant by "coastwise trade" in the law to which Great Britain has made objection. The note is so framed as to afford a possible basis for a discussion leading to an arrangement to refer the dispute to a special arbitral tribunal.

Pilgrims to Mecca Drowned.

Suakim, Egypt, Jan. 23.—Three hundred and fifty Mohammedan pilgrims from India to Mecca were drowned by a flood which overwhelmed the entire caravan at its encampment, midway between the sacred city of Medina, Arabia, and the port of Yembo, on the Red sea.

MORE DETAILS OF BIG TRUST

Former Head of Steel Corporation Talks.

THE COLONEL ALSO TESTIFIES

William E. Corey Makes Admissions to Government Inquirers Which They Regard as the Most Enlightening They Yet Have Heard on Subject of Steel Trust.—Roosevelt Quizzed About His Part in the Affair.

New York, Jan. 23.—Former President of the United States Steel Corporation W. E. Corey and Theodore Roosevelt were witnesses in a hearing held on the suit of the United States to dissolve the big corporation as a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Colonel Roosevelt, who repeated his experiences with the corporation when he was president of the United States, added that none of the facts as set forth in the government suit had the effect of a snap of the fingers on the situation which induced him to approve of the acquisition of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the company. Mr. Corey was regarded as the best witness the government has yet had.

He acknowledged that it was the policy of the steel corporation, as it was of the Carnegie company, of which he was an officer, to buy pig iron in the open market at a high price, although the company might produce all it wanted, because the price of finished products depended upon the price of pig iron.

He admitted that there was a hard and fast agreement between the steel corporation and the independent companies as to steel rails, whereby the prices and allotments were arranged by understanding.

Mr. Corey further admitted that there was an understanding between the United States Steel corporation and the steel rail makers of England, France, Germany and Belgium, whereby the neutral markets of the world were apportioned on a tonnage basis and at a price fixed; that is, the countries that manufacture steel rails agreed on a price for Italy, Russia, South America and the Orient and allotted to each country so much of the demand.

James A. Farrell, then in charge of the foreign selling department, had charge of the negotiations which led up to the understanding, and Mr. Corey thought that Mr. Farrell would be able to supply details. He only knew that the foreign sales of the company increased after 1904.

NOT FOR YOUR UNCLE JOE

Former Speaker Not Ready Yet to Sing His "Swan Song."

Washington, Jan. 23.—Uncle Joe Cannon is peevish because folks insist on taking all his speeches these days as "swan songs" in view of his retirement on March 4. When he was asked if he would make a farewell address at the non-partisan banquet which his colleagues in congress will tender him in February, Uncle Joe spoke substantially as follows: "Swan song? Me sing one? Never-r-r—at least until I'm in—"

HAVE MADE SOME PROGRESS

Directors of the Pacific Lines Working Toward an Agreement.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The representatives of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific boards of directors, who conferred here for two days in an effort to reach an agreement in regard to a dissolution of the Harriman merger, left for New York, leaving the impression that considerable progress had been made toward a solution of the difficulties. The disposal of the Central Pacific has been the stumbling block to an agreement. It is doubtful, from information obtained here, that the conferees have reached an absolute agreement in regard to the Central Pacific, but the situation is considerably clearer than it was when they came to Washington.

CUPID MAY SETTLE FEUD

The Houses of Hohenzollern and Cumberland to Be Reunited.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—It is reported that there has been a reconciliation between the Hohenzollern and the Duke of Cumberland families. It is said that this understanding will result in the betrothal of the kaiser's only daughter, the Princess Luise, with the Prince of Cumberland, and of Prince Adalbert, the third son of the kaiser, with Princess Olga of Cumberland. The feud, or misunderstanding, between these families has lasted for years.

Auto Bandits Growing Bolder.

New York, Jan. 23.—Five men dashed in an automobile up to Rohe Brothers' oil plant at 527 West Thirty-sixth street, and while four of them at the point of revolvers held back two inside and two outside employees of the firm, another one jumped over the wire screen around the cashier's cage and dashed away with about $700 of the firm's cash. The robbers then entered the taxi and sped away.

Persons troubled with partial paralysis are often very much benefited by massaging the affected parts thoroughly when applying Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains. For sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

BOURBON PRINCE, MADMAN FORTY YEARS, NOW DUMB

Unfortunate Nobleman Loses Faculties While Held in Seclusion.

Extraordinary revelations were made recently of the mode of life of Francis Charles of Bourbon, prince of Capua, who is seventy-five and has lived a madman's life for forty years in the Villa Marlia Capannori, near Rome. For several years now he has not spoken, having apparently been struck deaf and dumb in an apoplectic fit. Every morning at 8 o'clock a servant knocks at the door of the prince's bedroom and hurriedly places the breakfast tray—a sumptuous repast—through a sliding window inside the room.

The prince then jumps out of bed naked, throws a toga around his shoulders and hides till the domestic has disappeared. He cannot bear any one to see him. He has neither shaved, had his hair cut, washed nor cut his nails within the memory of his oldest retainers. Formerly if he saw any one approaching him he would make the most terrible noise, but nowadays, unable to give vent to his feelings thus, he claws at the air in front of him and lashes out with his fists, though the intruders may be a hundred yards or more away.

But the most remarkable performance takes effect after breakfast. Day after day, year in and year out, no matter what the weather is like, the unfortunate old man rushes stark naked out of the room, down the corridor, across the terrace of the villa to a chair. It is always the same chair. Once it was removed and the prince fell in one of his oft recurring fits. Seated on this chair, he dresses himself slowly, being generally presentable by midday. The rest of the day is spent within a circle of four or five square yards. The prince never moves farther away than that from the chair. Round and round it he walks, sharing his meals with the birds.

He takes great delight in smashing all the crockery each day. At 8 p. m. it is time for bed. A servant appears, and that is enough. Fighting the imaginary foe, the old man rushes off to his room and locks the door.

TELEPHONE NUMBER, 1111.

Thursday, January 23, 1913.

He Doesn't Care.

It is with dismay that we read that John W. Judkins of Wayne county, the only Bull Moose representative in the lower house of the legislature, publicly spoke against the eight hour law for women, which is incorporated in a bill now pending in the legislature.

Representative Judkins hails from the seat of insurgency in Indiana. His chief in the late campaign, Albert J. Beveridge, flaunted the eight hour law for women as one of his chief "battle cries". That and the minimum wage law for women excited him to the highest flights of oratory.

Now are we to behold the only authorized representative of the new party in the lower house of the legislature denying the legitimate child of the platform on which he was elected? If the lone representative of the lost cause is not to uphold the banner of "progressivism" what should be expected if the new party predominated in the Indiana legislature?

Representative Judkin took a very healthy, sane view of the proposed legislation. He said that he spoke from the standpoint of the rural citizen, the majority of his constituency being of that class. He declared a truth when he said that the man who wants to work only a few hours a day and who never strives to do more than that allotted as his share, would be a wage earner all his life.

Representative Judkin pointed out that the best mothers in America are those who work, and that the offspring of the laboring man are the most healthful children. He did not say that he would not vote for the eight hour law for women, but that he was attempting to get at the right thing for all the people.

Daniel J. Tobin, a labor leader, head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who had spoken in favor of the bill, asked Mr. Judkins a question as to the Progressive creed.

"Do you not know," demanded Mr. Tobin, "that Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Beveridge and Mr. Johnson and your party platform called for this sort of legislature, for the eight-hour day for women industry?"

"I do not care about that," replied Mr. Judkins, "I will be for this bill if I become convinced on information and study that the bill is right. I propose to be for the right wherever I find it."

Mr. Wilson is alleged to have said there are fifty applicants for each federal position in his gift. This number surely will multiply for there hardly has been time to hear from the back counties.

Necessarily there will be at the end of his presidential term a large number of local bosses mutinous from disappointment and ready to follow a strong leader—Bryan, for instance, out of the party if Mr. Wilson is nominated for a second term. Attention could be called to the fact that the platform upon which he was elected pledged him to a single term and, doubtless Mr. Bryan could show things in which he was apostate from the party faith.

No manager of a political pie counter can be universally popular long.

It now costs more to mail books than merchandise. This point has been overlooked and no doubt Congress will promptly apply the remedy.

"Suit the action to the word, the word to the action," says Hamlet. In Edison's talking-picture mechanism the advice becomes doubly important.

Parcel post is expected to be an efficient road improver on rural routes. As these include more than a million miles the good roads movement ought to boom.

"I see by the papers"—what a good, old homely phrase when the relator of a tale has no one else to blame!

Something to Worry About.

A doctor says too much kneeling brings on sickness.

Again we would like to comment on the announcement that the State board of health is making special study of the bedbug. The last time we saw one was when he slept—or rather stayed up with one all night—in a hotel at Greensburg.

When Dreams Come True.

(Andersonville Herald.) It is reported that Rushville has subscribed ten thousand dollars to help pay for the right-of-way for the traction line through Rush county.

There is general rejoicing that President Poincare newly elected head of the French republic, didn't fight that duel.

Grandmothers are the greatest offenders in spoiling children, declares Dr. John L. Morse. Dr. Morse has probably forgotten how he once was enabled to endure a licking, soothed and comforted by the expectation of a consolatory piece of pie from Grandma.

Labeling Jokes.

The Springfield, Mass., Union complains because some "irresponsible paragrapher," noting that the national wealth amounts to $34.72 per capita, advised his readers to draw on the United States treasury for their share.

As a consequence Director of the Mint Roberts has been flooded with serious requests for the $34.72. The Union says such jokes do harm and should be tagged.

Should they? Just think how easily a lot of simple minded people have got by this time. It has cost them a two cents stamp, and probably their time is not very valuable.

The world is full of a great many very innocent and unsophisticated people. They are continually investing hard earned money in rainbows. If they got a little practical experience of life out of the newspaper paragraph column at no greater cost than a two cent stamp, it was a valuable preparation for the grim jokes and bunco games of modern high finance.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

PARALLEL CAMPAIGNS.

(Muncie Press.)

The Press repeatedly called attention during the last campaign to the striking parallel between the campaign of 1892 and that of 1912—the people in the midst of prosperity unexampled, stirred by an unreasoning unrest, striking down the policies under which the national welfare was being advanced with remarkable rapidity.

The parallel seems to continue. In 1912, as in 1892, the anti-protection candidate won overwhelmingly, a congress democratic in both branches being chosen. As in 1893, so in 1913, a democratic president will call a special session to revise the tariff to a revenue basis.

But still more striking parallel, one of the first acts of the new administration, if it be as foreshadowed in the Staunton declaration of President-elect Wilson, and the selection of Bryan as secretary of state, will be the pulling down of the American flag in the island possessions of the United States,—in the Philippines, in Porto Rico. Twenty years ago one of the first acts of the Cleveland administration was the pulling down of the American flag in Hawaii.

Will the parallel continue? Will 1894 be repeated in 1914, and 1896 in 1916? It was Bryan in 1896. It looks like Bryan four years hence.

Here's Where The Fun Comes In

In His Postoffice.

Little Graham Pugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Pugh, is a very willing pupil. He will learn anything his older friends attempt to teach him—and very readily, too. He often visits G. P. Hunt's hardware store with his uncle, George Hogsett. Graham calls it Osborn's store. The other day Graham and his Uncle George were in the store. The fun-makers got their heads together, and Mr. Hunt, who was sitting in the back part of the store, knew something was on tap when he saw Graham leave the crowd and approach him. Graham walked up, put his hand on the proprietor's shoulder like a confidential friend and asked: "Please, Mr. Hunt, won't you give me a job in 'our postoffice'?"

School Notes

(By Supt. J. H. Scholl.)
The final reports for the pupils will be ready at 2:30 o'clock, Friday. At this time directions for books and supplies will be given. The doors will not be open for the pupils before the above hour.

No beginning pupils will be admitted at the Jackson school on account of the crowded condition of the first grade. All beginning pupils who will be six years old on or before Jan. 27 may enter at the Havens school or at the Graham school. Pupils who have already entered and who have been detained on account of sickness should enter on Monday if possible. No beginning pupils will be admitted at the Washington school as this school has annual promotions.

Miss Pearl Applegate will teach the 2A and 3A grades at the Graham school. The pupils in her room will remain and several pupils who have been unable to attend there because there was no grade for them will be enrolled at the Graham school for next term.

The work for beginning high school pupils will be as follows:

1. Composition, McDonald's Foundation English, price 90c; 2. Literature, Nettleton's Specimens of the Short Story, price 40c; 3. Collin's First Year Algebra, price 85c. 4. Andrews Practical Botany, price $1.25.

There will be no beginning classes in Latin or German. An opportunity will be given next fall for these subjects. A full year's work without interruption will be better for beginning students in a foreign language. Besides there is a very small entering class for these subjects.

An advanced course will be given in algebra, grammar, and public speaking.

Amusements

The Palace will have another two reel feature drama, "Victims of Ingratitude" tonight. It is said to be a dramatic production of merit and many thrilling scenes are shown.

The Princess will show a Biograph "My Baby" for the first picture tonight. It is a drama, featuring Mary Pickford. The other is a Kalem comedy, "I Saw Him First."

Joe, the Turk

A packed house greeted "Joe, the Turk" last night at the Salvation Army church. "Joe, the Turk" is a musician and lecturer and is one of the big men in Salvation Army work. Tonight, besides the usual musical program and lecture he will exhibit the double edge sword. Friday night at his final appearance here his famous illuminated umbrella will be shown.

75 Mules Are Sold at Record Price by Inlows.

Inlow brothers, residing near Ma-nilla, sold seventy-five head of mules Wednesday for shipment to Richmond, Va., the total received for the lot being $15,000, or an average of $400 to the span. All of the animals were bought during the past year. The brothers never have less than one hundred head of mules on their farms and during the past twelve months they have disposed of nearly four hundred head, most of which have been shipped to Richmond at prices as good as that received for the shipment of Wednesday.

He Comes Up Smiling

By
Charles Sherman

Without thinking of Billy other than as a pretty girl with whom to flirt, moved by the mischief of the moment, he had placed her father financially at the mercy of his enemy. And now to right the wrong to Billy, the only thing he could do would be to tell them who he was, a tramp, masquerading with decent people in his stolen finery. Petty thieving, the sharp tricks of the road, had passed quickly from his conscience, but this was different. A woman had been thrown into the bargain, the woman he loved, and Henrietta and the general trusted him. Bartlett deserved all he got, and Batchelor he dismissed with the comforting conviction that he was doing him a good turn. But Billy, Henrietta and the general! A wry smile twisted the Watermelon's mouth as he thought of the horror on the general's face when he learned that he had spent the week in the company of a nameless hobo. For a while he contemplated hurling away the watch along with the rest of the "hardware" and stealing away in the dark, hitting the trail again and catching up with Mike and James on their annual pilgrimage north. He drew the bills from his pocket and thought of all Bartlett would lose if he crept away without explaining, and Bartlett was Billy's father.

He heard a step on the porch and turned to see Billy hesitating in the doorway. "Jerry," she whispered softly and glanced behind her as though fearful of seeing her father or Henrietta peering at her over the banisters.

He went toward her, the bills still in his hand. "Billy," said he, "thrusting the money into his pocket, 'what are you doing at this time of night?' And he looked down at her tenderly in the dark where the hall lamp could not reveal his face.

Billy hesitated. She had seen the bills again and knew that he was worried. To worry over money matters was an unknown experience to Billy. She felt a delicacy in mentioning her errand.

"I—I—I came to see if the moon had set," she faltered.

"It's set," said the Watermelon. "Well," said Billy, "then I will go back."

"Good night," said the Watermelon. "Good night," said Billy, and lingered.

Then she laid her hand on his arm and spoke in a rush. "Oh, Jerry, please don't worry. If you want any money, father has heaps. You can have all you want."

The Watermelon drew a bit nearer. "Billy, Billy," said he softly.

"I think it must be terrible to worry about money," Billy hurried on. "It's not worth it."

"I'm not worrying about money, kid," said the Watermelon with a laugh. "I have a bunch. What made you think I was?"

"Twice tonight you've counted your money."

"Esau's bowl of pottage," sneered the Watermelon, turning unconsciously to the old familiarity with the Bible. "Say, Billy, if he found he didn't like his pottage, could he give it back and get his birthright again?"

Billy blushed. She was not sure who Esau was. In a dim way she remembered the name and vaguely associated it with the Bible. "Couldn't he have gotten something else?" she asked judiciously.

"No," said the Watermelon. "He had nothing more to sell."

"What did he sell?"

"His birthright—for a mess of pottage."

"Why'd he do that?"

"He was stony broke, he wanted something to eat, see, and he sold his all for a mess of pottage. Now, if he found he didn't like his pottage, could he have given it back and gotten his birthright again?"

"Yes, indeed," chirped Billy. "I don't see why not. But why didn't he get something better than a mess of pottage?"

"Don't ask me, kid. But, I guess you're right. No one can keep your birthright unless you're willing they should."

"I usually know more about the Bible," stammered Billy, fearful of the impression her ignorance must have made. "I know about Moses and Ruth."

The Watermelon nodded. "You see, I was raised on the Bible," he said kindly.

A step was heard on the floor above and she started hastily. "I guess I had better be going," she whispered. "Good night, Jerry."

"Good night, Billy."

She slipped away and the Watermelon was again alone.

"She's right. If you don't like your pottage, you can get your birthright back. I can leave a note," he thought and laughed bitterly. "Haven't a thing, name, clothes, honor. Sneak away like a whipped cur. Gosh, I'll be hanged if I can't do something respectable. I will tell them in the morning and they can do and say what they please. If you've sold your birthright to the Old Man, you have to go after it in person to get it back. Why the deuce did I fall in love with Billy? I had fun in the beginning—but now!"

When the Watermelon awoke next morning he lay for a time, stretching and yawning in the comfortable bed and the pea-green silk pajamas he had found in the suit-case in Batchelor's car. He glanced at the general slumbering beside him, his mouth open and his round fat face as pink as the pink cotton pajamas he wore.

"Here's me in silk and him in cotton," thought the Watermelon. "He couldn't tell a lie to save his soul, and I— Stick to your pink cotton, general," he whispered and slipped quietly out of bed. He crossed the room to the bureau where he had left the watch the night before to see the time. The watch was not there and he turned to look in his trousers pockets, thinking he might have left it in them. But his pockets were empty, save for a few old keys, his knife and "the makings." Money, watch, cigarette case, all were gone. He turned to the bureau. Cuff links and stick pin were also gone. Gingerly he felt in the general's pockets. They, too, were empty. He stood a moment in the middle of the room in his pea-green silk pajamas and gently stroked his back hair, then he chuckled softly and glanced at the bed.

The general was awake, looking at him with half-shut, sleepy eyes.

"Robbed, General," said the Watermelon.

"Robbed?" repeated the general, sitting up.

"Everything gone," said the Watermelon, "or I'll eat my hat."

The general rose and they made a systematic search through empty pockets and rifled bureau.

Bartlett came in gloomily. Without a cent among them they could not continue the trip. They would have to make for the nearest telegraph station and wire for help, and Batchelor.

Cut the High Cost of Living.

W. H. Chapman, Winnebago, Neb., tells how he did it. "My two children had a very bad cough and the doctor's medicines did them no good. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and before it was all used the children were free and cured of their cough. I saved a doctor's bill for one 25c bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." No opiates. F. B. Johnson and Co.

his whereabouts known to his brokers, would probably receive an urgent call to return at once.

"Robbed?" asked the general.

"They left me my name," said Bartlett grimly. "Who steals your purse steals trash, I suppose. We have that comfort."

"Not my purse," said the Watermelon. "Mine had money in it."

"My watch," said the general, "was a family heirloom. My great grandfather carried it."

"I wonder if the girls lost anything," said Bartlett.

"We will have to go to the nearest back," said the general.

"It was clever in him to take our check-books," said Bartlett.

"He will forge our names," declared the general. "I made a check out to pay for the board here, signed it, too, I remember, and then I found some cash and thought I would use that and went to bed and forgot to destroy the check. I know it was the stable-boy, for my room has a balcony in front, over the porch, and last night it was so warm I left the door open."

"Maybe it was," agreed Henrietta.

"I hate to suspect him, though."

To be continued.

They, Too, Were Empty.

telegraph station and telegraph for money," declared the general.

"I suppose so," growled Bartlett, and trailed from the room to finish dressing.

They found the girls in the dining-room, unaware of what had befallen them. They had slept late and the clock on the mantel registered half-past nine as the three men filed into the room. The general was calm, pompous, austere, but Henrietta had not lived with him for five and thirty years without having acquired the ability to read his every mood.

"Father," she asked, "what's the matter? Have your sins found you out?"

The general waited for the slatternly maid-servant to give them their breakfast and leave the room before he spoke.

"We have been robbed," he said calmly, casually, as one would mention the weather.

Henrietta and Billy stared.

"It's the stable-boy," said the general. "I noticed him carefully last night. He would not look any one in the face."

"He goes home every night," objected Henrietta. "Mrs. Parker told me so."

"That's no reason he couldn't come

THE MIRACLE WHEAT
LABEL SUIT NOW ON

Pastor Russell's Action Against Brooklyn Eagle.

New York, Jan. 23.—Pastor Charles T. Russell's doctrines as expressed in his discourses at his Brooklyn tabernacle, and the Bible figured prominently at the continuation of the trial of his $100,000 suit for libel against the Brooklyn Daily Eagle for its publication concerning the sale of "Miracle" wheat at $1 a pound in the Tabernacle. Supreme Court Justice Kelby and the lawyers all had Bibles in hand so that they could follow the explanation of the witnesses. These related to the teachings from the Tabernacle platform in regard to the beginning of the millennium of grace next year and the beliefs concerning the incarnation of fallen angels.

Mantus A. Spurgeon, who was a Baptist clergyman before he became a lecturer for the Russell doctrines a few years ago, was one of the witnesses for the plaintiff. He said that the fallen angels, who, according to Pastor Russell, occasionally assumed human shape, according to the Bible had been condemned not to Hades or Gehenna, but simply to the surrounding air.

"That is why they are able to appear at so-called seances," the witness said. While explaining the difference between the doctrines of the Baptists and those of Russell, the witness remarked "Hell is not such a hot place as some people think." He told how Pastor Russell had taught him that sinners are not to be tormented forever, as some Baptists think, and how the "ancient worthies" and the "old prophets" are to return to rule the world.

"Yes, sir," the witness said, "they are to be the rulers of the world when the dominion of the Gentiles ends." He also said that Pastor Russell's fixing the termination of the "rule of the Gentiles" to come in the fall of 1914, was in conformance with his own beliefs, "but it is only an inferential date and I never preach about it," he said. The witness testified that the signs of the times indicated that the great changes predicted in the book of Daniel are at hand.

GOOD PROGRESS IS BEING MADE

Indiana Lawmakers Pushing Right Along.

BILLS NOW ON THEIR PASSAGE

In the Senate Nine Bills Already Have Been Passed, While in the House a Number Have Been Advanced to Engrossment—Speaker Takes Occasion to Congratulate Committees on Their Use of the Ax.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—The honor of securing the passage of the first senate bill went to Senator Stotsenburg, who holds the record for the number of bills introduced by a single senator. This measure provides that there shall be public drawings from the jury box of petit and grand jury panels. Another of Senator Stotsenburg's bills which was passed provides that "struck" juries shall be selected from the box prepared by the jury commissioners, instead of from a list of names prepared by the clerk of the court.

Nine new bills were introduced in the senate yesterday and seven senate bills were passed. The house advanced seven bills to engrossment and heard the committee reports which recommended the killing of more than a dozen bills. It also received twenty new bills in the hopper. Speaker Cook congratulated the committee on judiciary when it reported in favor of killing most of the bills that had been referred to it. A movement to have legalizing acts referred to the state board of accounts for approval or disapproval, resulted in two bills being recommitted.

The senate committee on rights and privileges has deferred until Monday a hearing on the bill for granting female suffrage in school affairs.

Compulsory Inspection Disapproved.

Two bills that related to the health of children were acted on unfavorably by the house committee on education. One was a bill for compulsory medical inspection of school children. Only one of the twelve members of the committee favored its passage. The other was the bill for compulsory dental inspection and attention to delinquent children. Two members favored passage and ten opposed it. The committee also disapproved a bill which proposed to change the date on which money in the dog tax fund shall be transferred to the school fund. The Bull Moose free school book bill will have an inning before the committee next Monday, as will also the bill to adopt the Terre Haute plan of distribution of the school funds of the state. This proposes to give each city $100 for each teacher employed and to apportion the remainder of the funds according to daily attendance instead of on the basis of the school enumeration.

A favorable report will be made by the house committee on the State Soldiers' Home and State Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' home on a bill changing the amount inmates of the State Soldiers' Home at Lafayette shall pay to the state. At present the law provides that unmarried men in the home shall pay all in excess of $12 a month, married men all in excess of $15 a month, and widows all in excess of $10 a month of the money they receive in United States pensions. The bill, which is an amendment to the present law, provides that unmarried men in the home shall pay all in excess of $15 a month, married men all in excess of $22 a month, and widows all in excess of $12 a month.

A Blow to Pistol Totin'.

Representative Kemp's bill, prohibiting the sale of revolvers, knives or other dangerous or deadly weapons to intoxicated persons or persons known to be addicted to intoxicants, is recommended for passage in a report adopted at a meeting of the house committee on public morals.

A committee report favored the passing of the bill providing that a disbarred attorney may be reinstated after five years on petition to the judge of a circuit, superior or the supreme or appellate court. The committee on medicine and health recommended that the Fitzer bill, providing for the ventilation and sanitation of street, interurban and railway cars, be passed. Indications are that a bill pending in the house which would allow Gary, now a city of the fourth class, to become a city of the second class without waiting for the next United States census, will have rough sledding in its present form before the house committee on cities and towns. After considering the bill for a short time the committee decided to defer action until a thorough investigation of the points involved can be made.

The employment of a detective by the Marion county prosecutor for assisting in obtaining evidence for the prosecutor and the grand jury, is the object of a bill introduced in the senate at the request of Prosecutor Frank P. Baker of Marion county. The bill would apply, however, to all counties containing a city of 50,000 population or more. Prosecutor Baker says that many grand juries have recognized the need of the services of a detective in assisting in the gathering of evidence in criminal cases, and have often reported such a recommendation to the judge of criminal court.

Were You Ever Gold Bricked?

If you are thinking of buying a suit of clothes and some one offers you a cheap, out-of-date suit for a little less than I charge for an up-to-date, all-wool suit, made to your individual measure, out of 1913 goods, 1913 model, a suit guaranteed in style, fit, workmanship and wearing qualities, and you buy of him, then and there you are gold-bricked.

I have nearly one thousand patterns of the latest all wool fabrics, from the world's best looms, awaiting your inspection and from which you can select your new spring suit. The prices for the whole suit made to your measure range from $17.00 to $50.00 and some even higher, but any suit we make you, no matter what the price, will fit you, will wear you, will look good on you and will please you, even if it didn't cost you as much as $20.00.

Come in as soon as possible. Easter is not far off, March 23 this year, and judging from the way my canary bird is singing and Al. Linville's shining up, spring is nearly here.

WAYS CROSSING MAN SUCGUMBS

William Wortman, Age Forty Years, Falls Victim to Dropsy, After Year's Sickness.

William Wortman, forty years old, died at his home near Rays Crossing, west of Manilla, yesterday. Mr. Wortman was a victim of dropsy, from which he had been suffering for the past year. His condition had been such for the past year few weeks that all hope for his recovery had been abandoned. He had been a resident of only one year, having come there from Jefferson county, the place of his birth.

Mr. Wortman is survived by his wife, three brothers and four sisters. They are: Robert, of Madison; Charles, of Shelbyville; Richard, of Marion township; Mrs. A. Burns, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. William Beynon of Boggstown; Mrs. George Lanham, of Madison, and Mrs. Perry Brown, of Canaan, Ind.

The funeral services were held at the Little Blue Baptist church at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, the Rev. James L. Brown officiating, and the interment made in the Bennett.

The funeral services of Laura McDonald, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will McDonald of New Salem, were held this afternoon. Burial took place in Pleasant Run cemetery.

Martha, the twelve-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dawson of Orange is very sick with pneumonia.

NEGRO MAKES A LONE FIGHT

Joseph Hill, Who Was Born in House on County Line, Wants to go to Hayti.

AS UNITED STATES CONSUL

His Vote-Getting Prociivities in Rush County Are Recited by Admiring Friend.

Joseph Hill of Shelbyville, a negro, well known among the colored population of Rush county, is making a lone fight for the appointment as consul at Port au Prince, Hayti. Hill's application has just been received in Washington, together with a laudatory sketch written by some friend of the applicant, who says:

"Hill was offered a position as page at Washington City by Finly H. Gray, representative of the Sixth District, but this position he has turned down. Hill was born at St. Paul, Ind., March 15, 1861, in a small two-room log house, one room being in Shelby county and the other on the Decatur county side. Hill was born on the Shelby county side. When a schoolboy along in 176 Hill took a great interest in politics and whenever there was an election he would be found at the polls, battling for the Democratic principles, and many office holders owe their success to Hill.

"After reaching the age of maturity he devoted more of his time to politics and was called in to all the Democratic councils and his advice sought, and he is familiarly called 'Senator Hill.' He got to be so well known that he was called to Indianapolis time and again to help in elections. When Taggart ran for mayor the second time, Hill put in two weeks in Mr. Taggart's behalf and the work he did was effective and he refused compensation for it.

"Hill took Representative Gray last fall all over Rush county and made him solid with the colored vote. One incident worthy of note happened in Carthage, Rush county, a hotbed of Republicans and strongly settled by colored people who work in the strawboard works. Hill went there the night before election and stirred up such a feeling that so many of the colored voters voted the Democratic ticket that the township went Democratic. Hill was threatened with arrest and all kinds of threats were made against him, but he was obdurate and stuck until his work was completed and then rode sixty-two miles and got home in time to cast his vote.

"Hill has been mobbed, threatened and abused, and along in the early eighties it was worth as much as your life was worth to be known as a colored Democrat, but the more abuse he got the closer he stuck to the Democratic party, and today he stands as the best-known colored Democratic politician in the state."

BUCHANAN SENT UP.

(Comersville News.) John Buchanan, the young man who held up the C. H. & D. operator at Liberty four weeks ago, was sentenced to from two to fourteen years in the penitentiary by Judge Gray yesterday. The young man had previously pleaded guilty. After the holup the young man, it will be remembered, ran northward, and held the sheriff and others at bay in a hay barn for hours. He then hid in the hay and was captured.

ville, Anderson, Jackson, Posey and Ripley townships, and in each one of these five a special election was held. A special tax for the Big Four was voted by overwhelming majorities. It is pointed out by advocates of the new plan that a special election for the present needs should poll a much larger majority for the I. & C. traction line because of the value of the proposed enterprise.

There is no doubt in the minds of most people that a traction line is of immeasurably more value to a community than a railroad. The latter stops only at towns along the line. For instance, the Big Four makes but three stops in Rush county: Rushville, Milroy and Carthage. On the other hand a majority of traction cars operated on an interurban in a given daystop and take on passengers at almost every cross road. The greater value of an interurban is easily seen. It accommodates all the people of the community through which it passes, but in the case of a railroad, the resident of a given neighborhood has to drive to the nearest station. It addition interurban cars are run much more frequently than railway trains.

The idea which brought about the suggestion of a special election was presented by H. G. Hackman. It was that the county commissioners issue bonds to pay for the I. & C. right-of-way on the theory that the sum would be paid back in taxes on the extension. Placing the lowest and most conservative estimates, it was advocated that the I. & C. would pay at least a thousand dollars a year taxes in Rush county on their track and right-of-way, not considering the taxes on the increased rolling stock, power house and car barns. The argument made to the county commissioners would be that the county would not receive these additional taxes if the extension were not built.

Of course, this plan is illegal and out of the question. But at the same time it suggests an idea. The I. & C. would in a very few years pay back to Rush county in taxes a sum equal to that paid it by the special tax levy, so that the taxpayers, rather than losing, would gain eventually.
